

ABSTRACT

Currently the crime of human trafficking became the third international crime after crime of drug trafficking and arms trafficking. Human trafficking has become a business with billions of dollars each year. Approximately 60-80% of victims of human trafficking for purposes of sexual exploitation. Russia as a country that stands out in particular the problem of human trafficking for sexual exploitation. Year 2003-2010 in Russia rise and fall rate phenomenon of human trafficking victims. Factors driving this crime in Russia is the Russian post-Soviet economic instability, unemployment, poverty, instability in some countries of former Soviet Union, ethnic conflict and corruption, organized crime groups as a facilitator and pull factors in the destination country (market demand for sex). Russia's efforts to combat human trafficking is to strengthen legislation to prevent human trafficking in Russia, build the domestic economy, and cooperate with other countries, NGOs and the International Organization for preventing and combating human trafficking crimes.